

3 Accounting Resolutions

Eliminate roll forwards

It's time to leave roll forwards behind in the new year. When previous balance activity isn't considered, errors are more likely to occur. Proper reconciliations lead to increased internal controls and a smoother running accounting department.

Go digital

Is your current spreadsheet binder bursting at the rings? This is your year to leave paper behind. Especially with the rise of remote work, all documentation should be available to anyone who needs it. Your auditors will thank you for the quick pulls and it'll leave more room in your suitcase during your workcation.

Invest in automation

Machine learning and AI are advancing at rapid speed – is your team benefitting from the new technology available? While flying cars may still be in the distant future, reconciliations that reconcile themselves are here and your team should take full advantage. Join the 76% of businesses that say they're prioritizing automation in the next year and unleash the full power of your month-end close.
